Harry Leaves the Dursleys and spends them with the Weasleys. After some degoming(look at the link here:

) The whole family travel by floo powder to Diagon Alley for school supplies. Everyone makes it to the desired location except Harry, who was knocked off course.

He landed in a shop inside of the bad side of Diagon Alley known as Knockturn. The shop was filled with abnormal things you could never imagine. There were weird heart shaped logos were plastered on various glass jars.

This is where Sora and Kairi come into play. The former two arrive the same way Harry did.
